

Lifestyle Galaxy demands high ethical standards and compliance from itself and from all of its members and independent representatives.

This is how we make sure that we are a good company and that we make training available to our representatives on how to act ethically within the company's guidelines. It is imperative that our independent representatives understand the importance of acting ethically and in compliance with our policies and values.

It is exactly for this reason that we have implemented a certification quiz for our independent representatives. In order for us to make sure that they are well trained and well aware of how to remain highly ethical at all times.

Ethical behavior means we teach our representatives not to spam people, not to defame any ethical business opportunity with the purpose of promoting our products, services or our business opportunity.

It goes without saying that cross sponsoring is considered unethical. Not just within our membership, but also recruiting for another business opportunity within our membership.

We are passionate about helping to set the highest ethical standards in this industry. As demonstrated on LifestyleGalaxyCompliance.com, our vision is to make the world a better place.

It is for this reason that we do not allow our products, services or our business opportunity to be marketed on a website that markets other business opportunities. We cannot risk to be associated with less ethical companies.

What about marketing and presentation materials?

You are free to create your own presentations, but you will need to get approval from the company PRIOR to publishing or using it. This goes for websites, sales funnels, images and marketing videos. For public presentations, there are company approved presentations available for your use.

On social media pages or fan pages, it is not allowed to use the company logos, nor to use our brand names. The only exception is when the name makes it perfectly clear that it is about a team, group page or a profile. Example: Lifestyle Galaxy Team Europe or Galaxy Mining with John Doe.

Any independent rep or team leader can start their own social media groups and have their own policy on whom to grant access to it. The company does not own or manage any third party social media groups, it only manages it's own official social media fan pages. However, the company has the right to terminate social media groups that are out of compliance.

Core Communication Policies

It is imperative that our independent representatives fully understand what the value club membership is all about: it gives access to discounts and special offers on Lifestyle Galaxy's products and services. The enormous value offered within our Value Club is always expanding.

Access to the business opportunity is always free of cost. A member may become an Independent Representative free of cost by completing simple quiz questions on this document to prove that they have read and legally agree to abide by our policies and procedures and ethical standards. Once approved, there are no limits to the number of fast start commissions an Independent Representative can earn.

The statement above explains that the value club cost of $600 cannot be marketed as a cost to start the business opportunity.

Since we sell mining equipment and managed services under our mining packages, we do not talk about investments. An investment is a financial product, which we do not sell. As a logical consequence, we do not talk about ROI or return on investments. Instead, we talk about mining output. Therefore, independent representatives should not use the terms “investments” or “return on investments” under any circumstances.

People will often ask how much they will make on their mining package. We cannot answer that with a future result expectation. What we can do is share historical results on a mining package, while stating that past performance does not guarantee future performance. We should also explain that we have no influence on the mechanics of the blockchain nor any direct bearing on cryptocurrency values.

Financial advice is something that requires a license. For this reason, we will refrain from giving any advice or recommendation on what coin(s) to mine, what repurchase percentage to work with or even what we utilize in our personal strategy. We can simply explain the various options to any prospect, the choice is entirely up to them.

The same goes for what bitcoin or altcoin wallet people should choose: that is entirely personal and people should do their own research. We can give them a few options, like Coinbase, Kraken, Xapo, Mycelium or a hardware wallet. We are not financial advisors and we must remain highly conscious with our responses to these types of questions.

We strongly urge our independent representatives to refrain from over stating anticipated results. We believe we have extremely good products and services that are great just as they are and do not require any hype.

This is how we have earned the reputation of being one of the most trustworthy companies within our industry.

The commissions you make through the business opportunity should never be shared on social media or mentioned in public. Never show them in public nor post anything about this on social media. It would be a violation of the FTC rules and could jeopardize the company, as well as the income of all its independent representatives.

Results may vary for each independent representative based on their achieved skill-sets and the efforts they bring in developing their business. This will determine their individual active and passive income streams.

Membership Accounts and tree positions

There may be instances when a member could find himself in a position where he cannot maintain his membership/account. In these situations, he can look for someone willing to take over his account. The company does not mediate on payments or any other conditions of this transfer. However, a transfer of a membership account can ONLY be processed IF the selling member contacts support, completes the Transfer of Account document, signs and returns it to support. Our support team will then check whether or not the new member already has an existing account with Lifestyle Galaxy. If this is not the case, the transfer request may be approved and the name of the transferring member will be replaced with the name of the new member. The new member will then receive the login credentials from our support team.

Any other transfers of accounts not recognized by the company will be considered void.

We do not allow the purchase of an account above your sponsor.
